“ When you lose a friend, especially when that friend is a loved one, memories come rushing back of all the times you spent together. Most, if not all of them, are pleasant, heartwarming...even thoughts that can make you laugh. I seldom saw Cliff over the past six decades, but I was fortunate enough to be able to stay in touch with him by phone and over the Internet. The last time I was with him, almost four years ago, when we parted company, in my mind I recognized Cliff as a loving, honest and strong man. He had a spirit for life that shone through him. Memories of him come easily. The words that describe my love and respect for Cliff do not come as easily. Those words reside in my heart, and my mind cannot accurately describe the depth of my true feelings. I loved Cliff, and I still love him. It would not be right for me to say goodbye, His light will forever live within me. Rest In Peace my Cousin, my Brother.

“ I will miss our late night chats at the office. He was very knowledgeable about so many topics. I've learned so much from him over the few years. He had so much more to give. He was very caring and generous. He spoke so fondly about his children and grandchildren. Next time I'm up in the north woods I shall toast to Cliff.
