“ Met Sue in High School and after we all graduated in 1962, most of us went different ways to live our lives. At our high school reunions we all said lets do this on our own.

At our 50th reunion,over 6 yrs ago ,we did. Sue, to my knowledge never missed coming.

When Sue hosted us, WOW, what a spread of food, table settings,etc., we were not just friends,with many years behind us, we became sisters! When anyone of us needed prayers, we all stormed the heavens with prayer! On Dec 8th, when we stormed the heavens with prayer for you, God listened, but God knows best. We will always ask for your prayers, Sister, because now you know before we ask! Now we will pray with you and for you.

You are an inspiration to me, the way you accepted your illness. You never said you wanted to quit ,because of the pain,fear or outcome of what may go wrong. You always planned for tomorrow with courage and hope to live!

*With Love and prayers,

“ She's not gone she just moved to the other side. I went to High School with Mary Sue and lost contact until about 4/5 years ago. She would attend my Christmas open house and always have stories to tell. Sue (she wanted to be called) had a big heart and would always be the first to offer her help. Her biggest love were her daughters and grandchildren. Her smile would go from ear to ear when she would talk about them. I'm so glad I had the last few years to enjoy her company. We'll be together again some day.
Love ya Sue

“ Mary Sue will be sadly missed at our high school group get-togethers. She never failed to amaze us with her stories about her life and the lives of her daughters and grandchildren. My, how she loved her family! To her friends, Sue had the most generous and hospitable nature when invited to her home. Her smile and the incredible dimples in her cheeks will be forever imbedded in my mind. Thank you for sharing your love with us Sue. -Marcia “ I’ve only known Sue for a little over a year, but have enjoyed our friendship through our Red Hat chapter. She was always so kind, caring , and giving. She spoke lovingly about her family at each of our outings. Her energy and enthusiasm for life will be missed. She was so much fun to be with-know she’ll be lighting up heaven with her wit and laughter.
